J. J. HILL COMES HERE CHEERY. It Would Do Steel Pessimists Good to Drop 'Em Down North of Lake Superior.

James J. Hill came to town yesterday from St. Paul. Mr. Hill said he was "just looking things over," and that he might be here a week or ten days. Regarding conditions in the West he said:

"The farmers are ploughing and the crops are moving to market. People out there are prosperous. They are not dependent on manufacturing or stocks. There is plenty of money in the West and I do not believe that the demands on New York will be great.

On the steel situation and the low price of the Steel Corporation's stocks Mr. Hill "The trouble here is that people are apprehensive. They are afraid of something be a good thing if they could be dropped down somewhere north of Lake Superior. It would do them good.

"You can't raise steel as you can pcof the Steel Corporation around Lake Superior are immensely valuable; they are almost invaluable. For its control of the The reported purchases of further ore protected by himself and other Great Northern Railroad interests Mr. Hill would not confirm.

"We've got some good properties," he said, "and we're looking after them pretty

Decided weakness in the United States
Steel shares, decided strength in the local traction stocks and well nigh complete dulness and inactivity in other portions of the security list made up to-day's stock market. Save in one particular there was an entire absence of news affecting values one way or the other. Call money was slightly harder in tone, but still did not rise above 6 per cent. Only a small amount of money was sent West through the security list and the security list made up to day's stock market. Save in one particular there was an entire absence of news affecting values one way or the other. Call money was slightly harder in tone, but still did not rise above 6 per cent. Only a small amount of money was sent West through the security list made up to-day's stock market. Save in one particular there was an entire absence of news affecting values one way or the other. Call money was slightly harder in tone, but still did not rise above 6 per cent. Only a small amount of money was sent West through the second states of money was sent West through the Sub-Treasury, for crop moving, and announcement was made of the shipment of $750,000 gold to this side from Europe. Sterling exchange was again very weak, and this was the day's one important development. The sterling exchange market was in a condition that may truly be called demoralized. Very large offerings of commercial and security bills depressed sterling at one time to $4.83%, or % of a cent below the low figures for exchange quoted on Saturday. The market rallied very slightly before the close, but is now clearly at a point when, according to calculations based on orthodox standards, gold can be profitably imported by anybody. The asking price for gold in the open London market has been advanced to very high figures, but it is to be assumed that concessions will be made in these figures before our agents in London come to the point of withdrawing sovereigns from the Bank of England. The position assumed by leading foreign exchange houses is that inasmuch as Europe seems reluctant to part with its gold at her hand until it becomes really necessary for us to do sc; that is, until definite sigrs of a real money stringency appear here. European investors are just now very we'l disposed toward our bends and standard stocks and have recently been customers of our large banking houses in this regard to a greater extent than they have been for two years. Needless withdrawals of gold from the leading European centres would undoubtedly serve to check this buying, and so do more harm than good to the American market. There is, of course, no question as to our ability to draw gold in quantity from Europe whenever we desire, and the knowledge that this is the case should, and probably will, be fully as encouraging to stock market sentiment here as actual gold imports would be. Gold to the amount of $2,200,000 is, anyway, either now actually on its way to this country from Europe or has been engaged for that

The security market acted to-day like one in which instinctive impulses for higher prices for the standard shares were restrained by great pressure brought to bear upon one quarter; that is to say, upon the United States Steel stocks. United States Steel preferred fell 31/2 points from its close on Saturday, and rallied but little. The common stocks and the new sinking fund bonds of the corporation were comparatively firm, and transactions in them were much less than in the preferred shares. Dealthey think may came about. It would ings in these preferred shares, in fact, almost monopolized the day's business on the Stock Exchange. Close observers of the trading declared that a good part, at least, of the selling came from bearish tatoes. You can't mix up seeds and things speculators who felt, apparently, that very and make iron ore. The iron ore holdings little protection was being accorded to the Steel stocks. Such protection is, of course, difficult at best, on account of the large volume of the issue. Other information was to the effect that much genuine liqui-dation in the Steel stocks was going on, and that numberless investors who had become frightened over the cuts in steel prices were pressing their holdings for sale. Authorities in the steel trade were practically unanimous in stating that this fright was without reason.

Amalgamated Copper and Heinze deadlock.

"We tried to find a common ground on which the conflicting interests might meet," he said. "I think we at least found out what avenues were impossible. To look for a reconciliation does not seem unreasonable."

That the general market was not unsettled by the weakness in the Steel stocks must be recorded as only another proof of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and that one group of stocks, namely, the local street railway shares, actually recorded as only another proof of the confidence in the strong foundations on which it now rests; and that one group of stocks, namely, the local street railway shares, actually recorded as only another proof of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and that one group of stocks must be recorded as only another proof of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and that one group of stocks must be recorded as only another proof of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and that one group of stocks must be recorded as only another proof of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and that one group of stocks must be recorded as only another proof of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and that one group of stocks must be recorded as only another proof of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the foundation of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations of the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations on which it now rests; and the strong foundations of t That the general market was not unscored considerable advances in price during the day is, indeed, remarkable. No specific reason for the last named phenomenon was made known, but in all probability it was, substantially, the fact that people are now making up their minds that the Manhattan and Metropolitan Street Railway shares must be considered without cavil as 7 per cent. guaranteed stocks, and that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit shares are exceedingly cheap considering the continuously increased earnings of the Brook lyn Rapid Transit Company and of the profitable part that the company must play in the future development of the Greater New York.

THE OUTSIDE MARKET.

Active trading in the outside market today was confined almost wholly to the American Can issues. In other quarters of the market the dealings were on a very small scale. There was a strong tone apparent during the earlier hours of the day, but toward the close of business quotations began to sag somewhat, although the market at no time could have been called weak.
American Can common advanced from 3 to 3¼ on transactions of 2,700 shares, 100
of which were sold at 3½. Fifteen hundred of the preferred shares changed hands.
They opened at 27, at once jumped to 27%
and closed at 27½, registering a net gain of one-balf a point for the day. Northern securities was quite strong in the early dealings, selling as high as 88%, but it subsequently reacted to 87½ and closed at 88, unchanged from Saturday's closing price.
The copper stocks were all dull. A few hundred shares of Greene Consolidated Copper changed hands at 14½ and 15, which is fractionally higher than the figures ruling for this stock on Saturday. Another loss of 7 points was recorded by Standard Oil, the closing price to-day being 650. United States Steel Corporation bonds, series A, sold from ing to the common stock was disposed of for 15 cents a share.
